

SECILY WILSON

Secily currently serves as the Director of Community Relations for the YMCA of Central Florida. She is the mother of 2 daughters, a Telly Award winning broadcast journalist, media communications professional, Mrs. Florida International 1999 and founder of her own non-profit WOW Legacy Group Inc. which supports women in transition. For more than 20 years Secily delivered hard hitting, inspiring and entertaining reports in news, lifestyle, art and entertainment. Over the years Secily has interviewed notables like Oprah, Civil Rights icon Andrew Young, former NFL coach Tony Dungy, former CNN anchor Soladad O'Brien and many others.

Secily has the ability to connect with audiences, viewers and listeners alike. She has a commanding presence and the ability to light up a room without saying a word. Her transparency allows others to see that beyond the name recognition, cameras and makeup she is relatable. Secily made her debut as the Red Carpet correspondent at the 2010 Soul Train Music Awards, the Tom Joyner Morning Show, BET and Centric TV.

She is passionate about issues like stroke awareness and domestic violence. Secily is often found giving back to her community, spreading awareness and volunteering. She received her broadcast journalism degree from Valdosta State University, is a member of Jack and Jill of America Inc.
